DECOY

Led Wilson Into Trap.

Burton Was Used by the County Detective.

Guardian Asked For Charles H. Palmer.

Two New Cases Commenced to Assess Damages.

Warner Will Cause Trouble—Court House News.

The trial of Levi Wilson, who is alleged to have stolen brass and other metal from the plant of the Loomis Salt company, was commenced Tuesday morning.

From the testimony of Charles Burton, it is evident that he played an important part in the arrest of the prisoner. He said that he had, acting under the instructions of Mr. H. E. Loomis, led Wilson to a shed where the metal was stored. This was on the night of the arrest. Several times previous he had had conversations with Wilson relative to taking the metal. He was the decoy which led Wilson into the trap prepared for him by County Detective Burlison. Metal had been missed a number of times before. The prisoner appeared in court with his wife and three small children, one an infant which the father held in his arms. The family is in destitute circumstances. It is probable that the children will be sent to the Summit County Home. Mr. H. M. Hagelbarger is assisting the prosecutor, it being his first appearance in court as a practicing attorney.

Palmer's Troubles.

An application has been filed in Probate court by L. S. Pardee asking for the appointment of a guardian for Charles H. Palmer, who has attracted attention because of his litigation with Attorney Childs and Agnes Loomis. It is alleged that he is an imbecile. He has property valued at $4,100. Palmer was indignant when he heard of the application. He has no relatives living.

Objections.

The will of William Warner is not to the liking of some of the heirs. They called on Judge Anderson Tuesday and made objections to the codicil, which provides that, "if he pursues the course which his father has and is pursuing," receive $1 and no more. It is claimed that the deceased was prejudiced against the grandson by reason of the influence of others.

City Cases.

New petitions have been filed in Probate court, asking that damages be assessed because of the East Market improvement. One petition includes the property owners from High st. to Buchtel ave. The other the owners from Buchtel to Case aves. Under the first petition the claims filed follow:

Ida M. Paige, $2,500; A. A. Brewster, $200; City Hospital, $5,000; O. C. Barber, $3,000; Laura C. Thompson, $1,000; Fanny A. Kohler, $800; Maria J. Lafferty, $800; E. GOOD COFFEE MAKER.

Experience With the Berry.

"I have gained 25 pounds since I left off coffee and began drinking Postum Coffee in its place. I had become very thin in flesh and suffered tortures with heartburn, was a nervous wreck with headache practically all the time until one day when the good doctor told me I must quit drinking coffee, as he had nothing left to try, to relieve me. I could not drink tea and tried everything else, even Postum, but put it by at the first trial, because it was tasteless. I was forced to it again, I determined to see if it could not be made palatable and found at once that when I followed directions and boiled it long enough, that I not only liked it but gave it to my husband for several days without his finding it out. I have the name of making splendid coffee and we always used the best, but of late I have given Postum to guests many times in place of coffee and have never been detected yet. "Our four children have not drank coffee for three years, and all have gained health and flesh since using Postum. One son, who was always sick, has been greatly benefited by its use, and as above stated, I have gained 25 pounds since taking up Postum. I am healthier today than I have been for years and give Postum all the credit. Please do not use my name in public."

This lady lives in Burlington, Des Moines county, Iowa, and the name will be furnished by the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., those interested.

OVERFLOWING

With Gratitude Are the Local Reporters

For Courtesies Extended By Manager Tilton of the Buchtel.

Manager W. A. Tilton, of the Buchtel Hotel, is always popular with the newspaper men of the city, by reason of his genial disposition and the many appreciated courtesies he extends them.

Realizing that in their official capacities the reporters do not at all times repose on beds of roses, Mr. Tilton occasionally indulges the "boys" with some amenity that for a long time causes them to forget the variegated train of asperities usually attendant upon the even tenor of their ways. His most popular manner of making the scribes glad is to give them a dinner on various appropriate occasions, and these dinners are always of such character that they are remembered with the happiest feelings of appreciation. While the reporters are at the dining-table, Mr. Tilton's commands to them are at great variance with those they sometimes hear from the city editors, such as, "Hurry up and cut it short." Instead he says: "Take your time, boys, and 'spread on it' all you wish, and when this is finished I'll give you more." And the boys do "spread," as they never "spread" before.

Upon invitation the reporters of the city papers dined at the Buchtel Sunday. The menu to which they were treated embraced not only all the palatable substantial known to the culinary art, but was also augmented with the daintiest delicacies and viands, beginning with blue points and terminating with fruits and nuts. Meats of every description, vegetables, cakes, pies—well, you know what a dinner at the Buchtel means. The "boys" knew what it meant when they got the invitation, and with that deep sagacity capable of them, all began at once to fast so as to be in proper trim for the occasion—and they were.

At the conclusion of the feast, it was suggested that a committee composed of John Botzum et al. be directed to prepare resolutions of thanks to the host, but from the fact that there seemed to be an insinuation in the term "et al.," Mr. Botzum refused to play, and a little later, when Manager Tilton was passing around some fine cigars, said, "I'll bet the host gives us these cigars as an expression of relief that we at last got away from the table," but the reassuring smile of Mr. Tilton denied any such assumption.

Beautiful music furnished by an orchestra during the dinner hour was a very delightful feature.

In looking about the large and elegantly appointed dining hall, the scribes saw scores of others equally enthusiastic in their enjoyment of the elegant and well prepared food, which has given the Buchtel hotel table a far-reaching reputation as being one of the most superb hosteleries in the State.

It was said of one of their past meetings that they intended to form a trust with a capitalization of $3,000,000. In this they were also said to have been unsuccessful.

Ada Thompson Objected to Being Returned to the Asylum.

Unfortunate Ada A. Thompson was taken back to the Newburg asylum Monday by a guard from that institution.

She was sent there several months ago by Judge Anderson. The woman, who resided at Hudson, believed that Judge Dellenbaugh of Cleveland, was in love with her. She was continually writing letters to him, filled with most endearing terms.

Last Wednesday she escaped from the asylum and came to Akron, attending the street fair. Saturday she walked into Probate court, much to the surprise of Judge Anderson. The woman objected seriously to going back to the asylum. It was necessary to carry her from the jail to a carriage as she would not walk.

YOUNGSTOWN.

Next Conference of Northeastern Ohio Methodists Will Meet There.

The morning session of the East Ohio conference opened at 8 o'clock, Bishop Mallalieu presiding, at Alliance, Monday. The first business was the introduction of Rev. J. M. King, secretary of the Church Extension society, who in an enthusiastic speech laid the needs of that society upon the conference.

Mr. Frank A. Arter, chairman of the Board of Stewards, gave the reports which showed that the total amount raised this year was $6,753. The claimants upon the funds were thirty-one ministers and fifty-three widows.

At 10 o'clock the annual meeting of the ministers' wives was held in the church parlors.

The Committee on Conference Boundaries reported through their chairman, Dr. Carr, that the Central Ohio conference refused to have anything to do with the consolidation of the conference, therefore the committee had no report.

Invitations were presented at the afternoon session from Cambridge, Akron, East Liverpool and Youngstown, for the next annual session. A vote was taken, which resulted in Youngstown being selected.
